The HGS Stereochemistry Molecular Models are suited for constructing molecular skeletons, the scale of the model being $1 \text{ \AA} = 2.0 \text{ cm}$. It is thus very useful for configurational and conformational studies of organic, inorganic, and biochemical molecules. The chair, boat, or envelope inversions of ring structures can be readily performed, strained rings can be constructed without difficulty, and interatomic distance and torsion angle can be measured directly. Particularly the data are important for the analyses of NMR NOE, coupling constants, CD (circular dichroism) exciton chirality, etc. Thus these models are well-suited for stereochemical assignments and discussions. Maruzen provides the recently updated #4000A Standard Set and #7000A Advanced Set. Both contain sufficient carbon atoms, heteroatoms, and three-membered ring units for constructing large and complex molecules. For example, the largest set, #7000A, contains 112 sp^3 -C atoms, 92 sp^2 -C atoms, H atoms for H-bond, double bond O atoms for H-bond, halogen atoms, sp^3 -Si atoms, sp^3 -P atoms, sp^3 -S atoms, octahedral metal atoms (bond length, 1.20 \AA and 1.40 \AA), cyclopropane, aziridine, epoxide, etc. Thus, a wide variety of organic, inorganic, and biochemical molecules can be constructed by these kits. For individual students, there is a compact #4010 set. The #4000A set and #7000A set are therefore indispensable for stereochemical research and discussions with 3D visualization.
