Set Theory (London Mathematical Society Student Texts) Andras Hajnal, Peter Hamburger

This is a classic introduction to set theory, suitable for students with no previous knowledge of the subject. Providing complete, up-to-date coverage, the book is based in large part on courses given over many years by Professor Hajnal. The first part introduces all the standard notions of the subject; the second part concentrates on combinatorial set theory. Exercises are included throughout and a new section of hints has been added to assist the reader.
